

Flea/ Tick

2 days isolation would be great. If you use the Knockout fogger in a garage prior to kenneling dogs in that type of area and you regularly use the ko area spray & keep carpets out of that area, I think a garage would work. Regular spraying with an area treatment and using one of the barrier sprays in the garage would keep control of the fleas. You would have to be really careful about not carrying them into a house or car. Fleas have to feed every so many hours but they normally don't live on dogs for long periods. Our bet used to say they hop on people or dogs for a meal then jump off. They will move around in search of a more viable meal. With capstar and the spray treatments, fleas never lived more than 4-6 hours. The extra day was protection due to the fleas hiding on the head issue.
